

Biography: Jipeng Zhang is a Senior Researcher at Microsoft. His research focuses on improving foundation models through data-centric training and selection, post-training and multimodal model training.

He received his Ph.D. in Computer Science and Engineering from the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology in 2025, advised by Prof. Tong Zhang and Prof. Xiaofang Zhou. Before joining Microsoft, he conducted research at ByteDance, Microsoft Research, with work spanning multimodal foundation models, code language models, mathematical reasoning, and data-driven methods for building capable and reliable AI systems.

Homepage: Jipeng ZHANG